

Signed Consent to Participate in Research

University of Oklahoma

Guidance: The red-colored font in this document provides guidance and sample language that may be needed for different research designs and participants. Please take out what does not apply. You may revise the language to be appropriate for your research participants. You should not remove any sections that do not have language saying they can be removed. These sections contain federally required elements that must be in a consent document. The final document after you remove unneeded sections should not exceed three pages.

Would you like to be involved in research at the University of Oklahoma?

I am [PI Name] from the [XX Department], and I invite you to participate in my research entitled [research name]. This research is being conducted at [enter the place where the research is conducted]. You were selected as a possible participant because [explain the eligibility criteria used to identify the participant]. You must be at least 18 years of age to participate in this research.

Please read this document and contact me to ask any questions you may have BEFORE agreeing to participate in my research.

What is the purpose of this research? This research aims to (Use language the participant would understand to briefly explain why you are doing this research).

How many participants will be in this research? About (insert the number of research participants, if appropriate, report the total number of participants and break out this number by subgroups of participants – for example, about 100 people will participate this includes 33 students and up to 67 of their parents and guardians) people will take part in this research.

What will I be asked to do? If you agree to be in this research, you will (Explain all of the tasks/procedures the participant will complete during the research, the frequency of procedures, etc. Indicate if they will be audio or video recorded or if photos will be taken. Also, describe any experimental procedures. If participants must answer questions, such as forced responses in an online survey, indicate that here).

Are there other options to complete my course's research requirement? (Include this section if the research involves participation in a student research pool where students will receive class or research. Otherwise, DELETE this section.) You have the option to (describe what other option the participant has to receive research or extra credit).

How long will this take? Your participation will take (Indicate the length of time of participation for each activity and the total for all activities in the research. Example: 30 minutes, 1 hour, or 4 visits for a total of 2 weeks. If applicable, also include anticipated circumstances under which the investigator may terminate participation without the participant's consent).

What are the risks and benefits if I participate? (If there are no risks or benefits) There are no risks and no benefits from being in this research. If the data are collected anonymously and no one will know (or can determine) the participant's identity, it may not be necessary to include a particular risk statement.

If there are risks, list them in order of severity. Include the likelihood of each and under what conditions the researcher will terminate participation or the research research.

You may describe what you will do to minimize these risks.

46

47 SAMPLE RISK STATEMENTS: (For most studies, NOT all of these risk statements will 48 apply. Delete statements that do not apply. You can also edit these statements to fit 49 your research.)

50 Research involving AI transcription: The online platform uses artificial intelligence to transcribe
51 your recording. The organization hosting the transcription platform has its own privacy and 52 security policies for keeping your information confidential, however, no assurance can be 53 made as to their use of the data for purposes other than this research.

54 Research involving observations that may have legal reporting requirements: The researchers
55 would like to observe your interactions with your (child, students). If there is any evidence of 56 child abuse or neglect during these observations, members of the research team are legally
57 obligated to report this to the appropriate government organization.

58 Research that might reveal intent to harm self or others: The researchers will ask you
59 questions about difficult interactions with others, such as (xxx). If you tell us that you want to 60 hurt someone else or that you have considered hurting yourself, members of the research
61 team are legally obligated to report this to the appropriate government organization.

62 Research involving the elderly or other vulnerable populations: The researchers will ask you
63 questions about your interactions with family members. Suppose you tell us that members of 64 your family are abusing or neglecting you in any way, such as taking your money or hurting
65 you. In that case, members of the research team are legally obligated to report this to the 66 appropriate government organization.

67 Questions that could be emotionally distressing: We will ask you to answer questions that may 68 make you distressed or trigger strong emotional reactions. If these questions make you feel 69 uncomfortable, you do not have to provide an answer, or you can stop our discussion or 70 discontinue participation in the research. If the researcher sees signs that you are distressed,
71 they will pause the discussion and ask if you would like to continue. There are also resources
72 for you that are available anytime: (Provide access to a mental health/well-being assistance 73 telephone number in the local area or national website.)

74 Focus group participation: Participation in a group discussion includes the risk that other focus
75 group participants may share your statements with people who were not involved in the 76 discussion. To minimize the risk of identifying you and your comments, we will remind 77 everyone that what is said here is confidential and should not be shared with anyone else.

78 Audio or video recorded data collection: There is a risk of accidental data release if we collect
79 your data using audio and video recordings. If this occurred, your identity and statements you
80 made would become known to people who are not on the research team. To minimize this risk, 81 the researchers will transfer data to, and store your data on, a secure platform approved by the 82 University's Information Technology Office.

84 identification: You will be asked to provide demographic information that describes you. We 85 may also gather information about your geographic location in this research. Different 86 combinations of personal and geographic information may make it possible for your identity to 87 be guessed by someone who was given, or gained access, to our research records. To 88 minimize the risk of deductive re-identification, we will not combine identifying variables nor 89 analyze and report results for small groups of people with specific demographic characteristics.

Documents or records shared with the researcher: You will be asked to transfer documents, images, or other personal records to the researchers in this research. There is a risk that someone not part of the research team may gain access to this data during the transfer process. We will give you information about transferring data to the researchers to minimize this risk. When we receive your data, we will transfer the data to, and store your data on, a secure platform approved by the University's Information Technology Office.

Data collected online or by a device and transmitted electronically: You will be asked to (complete an online survey or describe the device they will use or wear) as part of this research. The organization hosting the data collection platform has its own privacy and security policies for keeping your information confidential. There is a risk that the external organization, which is not part of the research team, may gain access to or retain your data or your IP address which could be used to re-identify you. No assurance can be made about their use of the data you provide for purposes other than this research.

What are the benefits if I participate? Describe the direct benefits for the participant, if any. Do not list abstract benefits like learning about research or clarifying your personal beliefs. Do not include compensation such as course credit or receipt of $$ or other items of value as a benefit; instead, use the compensation section that appears below.)

What do I do if I am injured? (This section only applies if you collect medical specimens or ask participants to perform physical activities. If you use this section, describe the risks that may result from participating in the physical and testing activities in the risk section above. Delete this section if not applicable.) Explain when compensation will be given to the participant and the conditions of receiving the compensation (e.g. if compensation will be pro-rated for participants who do not complete the entire research. For participants who have invested more than one hour in the research, compensation should be pro-rated based on the time they have invested in the research. Also, describe any other situations (such as not completing all data collection activities or not passing the attention check questions) where the participant will not be compensated.

Who will see my information? There will be no information in research reports that will make it possible to identify you (if applicable, add without your permission). (If you want to report names or use direct quotes or attribution to individuals, retain contact information, you must include the appropriate checkoffs under the "Will my identity be anonymous or confidential?" section below).
